DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 1, 10 and 19, the recitation "displaying a first graphic indicator clustering and displaying a second graphic type indicative of an application" is vague and indefinite because it is not clear to what they refer. In other words, it is not clear what is the distinction between the clustering indicator and the grouping indicator. It appears that both refer to the same thing. Correction and/or clarification is required.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-4, 7-13, 16-22 and 25-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bowser et al (6,943,793B2).

Bowser et al disclose a method and apparatus for displaying a first graphic type indicative of a processor usage including at least one of processor assignment, processor availability and clustering; and displaying a second graphic type an application group associated with each of the processors in a multiprocessor system which all function as claimed (see figure 5D, 6; column 4, lines 57-67 and column 5).

In claims 7, 16 and 25, relative to the limitation " wherein the graphic indicator comprises a bar" such is also shown to be old by Bowser et al (see figure 5D).

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 5-6, 14-15 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowser et al in view of Manghirmalani et al (5,819,028).

Bowser et al is discussed above. Manghirmalani et al is cited to show that the broad concept of utilizing a graphical indicator as a gauge to indicate a range is old (see figure 3; column 8, lines 16-19). Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the system of Bowser et al with the noted teaching of Manghirmalani et al such that to use a graphical gauge indicator for indicating a processor usage range because that is an alternative equivalent of a graphical bar range indicator which the substitution of one for another is well within the realm of one of ordinary skill in the art and further because both references are related to graphical icon representation of various aspect of computer processing.

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-27 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bormann et al, Sanches-Fran et al, Martines et al and Mayo et al are made of record to show various types of graphical indicators for displaying different processing tasks in a multiprocessor system.
